REPUBLICAN CAMPAIGN BUDGET IS PROBED

WILLIAM M. BUTLER, NATIONAL CHAIRMAN ON THE STAND TODAY

CASH COLLECTED UP TO PRESENT TIME TOTALS $1,700,000

BUTLER OUTLINED IN GENERAL WAY HOW MONEY WAS TO BE SPENT

(By United Press)

Chicago, Oct. 17.—The campaign budget of the republican national committee totals $3,000,000, William M. Butler, national chairman, told the Senate campaign fund investigating committee here today.

Of that sum $2,500,000 is to be used for the national campaign and the balance in the congressional and senatorial campaigns, Butler said.

Cash collected up to the present time totals somewhat more than $1,700,000, he told the committee.

"How much more do yuo expect to collect by election day?" Senator Borah, chairman of the committee, asked.

"All of it," Butler replied. "Three million dollars."

Butler outlined in a general way how the money was to be spent. Senator Caraway of Arkansas asked him to explain how the $6,000 alloted to college clubs and the $30,000 allotted to the negroes' bureau was to be spent. Butler said the money was to defray expenses of getting out literature, speakers and similar activities.

"In this publicity work, do you get out what we used to call 'boiler plates' and 'canned editorials'?" Caraway asked.

Butler, after stating he was not fully acquainted with the terms used by Caraway, finally said he thought the Washington bureau took care of that work.

"In your judgment, do you think it will take two or three million dollars to run the campaign?" Caraway asked.

"It makes all the difference in the world what kind of acampaign it is," Butler answered.

Butler said that he felt that that was a fair amount for the conduct of this campaign.

"In the language of the streets—money talks," Caraway remarked.

"I think so," answered Butler.

Senator Shipstead, farmer-labor member of the committee, asked Butler whether there was anything to the report that the republicans were raising large sums of money to throw into states.

"There is nothing to that," Butler answered.

Caraway then asked whether the proposal to raise $500,000 in Massachusetts, Butler's home state, met with his approval.

"No, it does not," Butler replied. He explained the proposal to raise $500,000 in that state came from a manufacturer and did not meet with the approval of the national republican committee.

The proposed $600,000 fund in Pennsylvania did not meet with his approval either, Butler said, in answer to a question from Borah.

Butler then stated that a letter sent out by J. R. Grundy of Bristol, Pa., to raise money did not meet with his approval.

The proposal to raise $600 in the state was sanctioned, he said.

"Why is it that you asked Pennsylvania to raise one-fifth of the total budget? Is it because you feel it is fertile ground for collections?" Caraway asked.

"Yes, I hope so," Butler replied.

Butler then explained that the method of raising the campaign fund proposed in Massachusetts was not approved by him, for the reason that it was proposed to raise money from manufacturers of that state.

Caraway commented that if Butler had followed the same basis for raising the funds over the country the total would be more than a billion dollars.

"Oh, no," Butler answered hastily.

Butler was dismissed after promising Borah he would supply the committee with a detailed list of all contributions and expenditures within a few days.

George Barr Baker, head of the republican publicity bureau, was then called and gave details of the expenditure of $437,000 by the bureau.

BORAH SEARCHING FOR "SPLIT" CONTRIBUTIONS

Chicago, Oct. 17.—Not wholly satisfied with campaign fund information given by William V. Hodges, national treasurer of the republicans, Senator Borah today summoned before the Senate campaign fund investigating committee William M. Butler, chairman of the republican national committee and George Barr Baker, head of the publicity committee.

Borah is particularly anxious to find out whether the republicans have received large sums in "split" contributions from any source. The republicans have put a limit of $25,000 on individual contributions.

GOITRE PREVENTION URGED BY SPEAKER

St. Paul, Oct. 17.—The importance of preventive treatment for simple goitre was emphasized in a health talk given before the Gordon School Mothers' club by Miss Marie Peterson, health educator for the Ramsey County Public Health association. This is the first of a series of talks on various health subjects to be given by Miss Peterson throughout Ramsey county, as part of the health educational program of the County Public Health association, made possible through Christmas seals.

"Examinations of the children in the sixth, seventh and eighth grades in the St. Paul schools last year revealed that 73 per cent of the girls and 54 per cent of the boys had enlarged thyroid glands," said Miss Peterson.

"Experiments made with large groups of children in many communities, particularly in Ohio, have definitely proven that simple goitre can be prevented by supplying iodine, the lack of which in food and water is the cause of the enlargement. Preventive treatment should start at least before the age of 10, to be the most effective, and should continue over a period of years, according to the United States Public Health Service."

ROUTS HIS HECKLERS IN HIS ST. JOHN'S MEETING

(By United Press)

St. John's, Kansas, Oct. 17.—William Allen White who is stirring Kansas with his attack on the Ku Klux Klan while stumping the state in his second-hand automobile as independent candidate for governor, routed his first hecklers in an address here Thursday.

The fiery Emporia editor warned his hearers that he intended to step on someone's toes and followed the remark by the assertion that the Klan was "a cowardly, traitorous outfit."

The name of President Coolidge and U. S. Senator Arthur Capper came in for discussion.

"When did the president ever say anything against the Klan?" White was asked.

"He stated he was not a member of the Klan and was not in sympathy with its aims or purposes," White replied.

"Why don't you say something about Capper—he got the Klan endorsement," another heckler fired at the speaker.

"Since I'm not twins I must take on only one at a time," White shot back, adding that his fight was against Ben Paulen, republican gubernatorial candidate.

"You Kluxers didn't have anything more to do with the nomination of Capper than you did with the nomination of Coolidge," was White's parting shot. "You're just hanging on to the coat tails of a mighty fast goer."

Science Helped N. W. Reap Large Crops, Radio Fans Told

Minneapolis, Oct. 17.—Science, as well as a benevolent Providence, can claim a share of credit for the plentiful and profitable harvest of cereal crops in the northwest this year, Dr. E. C. Stakman, University of Minnesota plant pathologist, told a radio audience in a lecture from WCCO.

"The abundant yield of good quality wheat which is now bringing high prices wasn't all a matter of luck," Dr. Stakeman said. "Science had something to do with it. For many years black stem rust has been one of the limiting factors in the production of small grains in our north central states. In a single year this destructive plant disease has taken a toll of as much as 200,000,000 bushels. For the past decade the loss has averaged 50,000,000 bushel per year.

"Agricultural scientists learned that rust could be controlled by the eradication of the common barberry bush, an alternate host in the life cycle of the fungus which causes the damage. They urged the removal of all common barberry bushes in the spring wheat territory. Since 1916, when the federal government undertook leadership in the systematic eradication campaign, some 10,000,000 barberries have been destroyed."

Chicago, Oct. 17.—The campaign budget of the republican national committee totals $3,000,000, William M. Butler, national chairman, told the Senate campaign fund investigating committee here today.

Of that sum $2,500,000 is to be used for the national campaign and the balance in the congressional and senatorial campaigns, Butler said.

Cash collected up to the present time totals somewhat more than $1,700,000, he told the committee.

Washington, Oct. 17.—H. H. Kohlsaat of Chicago, noted journalist, died at the home of Secretary of Commerce Hoover today of heart trouble.

Kohlsaat had been visiting the Hoover home since last week. He was stricken Tuesday morning. His wife and daughter were with him at the end.

Girls Drink Unwisely, Too Well; Make Police Station in Two Reels

St. Paul, Oct. 17.—Police have as their guests two young and pretty Indian girls, who, tasting the life of the city, found themselves weak.

They came from Sisseton, S. D., to visit a sister living in Minneapolis.

In St. Paul they entangled with some firewater. It proved too effective, however, and unusual as it may seem to whites, they headed for the police station, and voluntarily asked to be kept till their reeling senses steadied.

The girls gave their names as Harriet and Elizabeth Redearth.

RAZZED FOR NOT CARRYING I. W. W. CARD; KILLS SELF

(By United Press)

Elbow Lake, Minn., Oct. 17.—Henry Torgerson, 28, died at his home three miles from here when he drank poison yesterday. Returning to his home a few days ago from North Dakota, where he worked as an engineer in the threshing fields, he complained of being "razzed" by other workers because he did not carry an I. W. W. card.

WM. ALLEN WHITE STUMPS KANSAS ATTACKING K. K. K.

TOURS DOMAIN IN A SECOND-HAND AUTOMOBILE

ROUTS HIS HECKLERS IN HIS ST. JOHN'S MEETING

(By United Press)

St. John's, Kansas, Oct. 17.—William Allen White who is stirring Kansas with his attack on the Ku Klux Klan while stumping the state in his second-hand automobile as independent candidate for governor, routed his first hecklers in an address here Thursday.

The fiery Emporia editor warned his hearers that he intended to step on someone's toes and followed the remark by the assertion that the Klan was "a cowardly, traitorous outfit."

The name of President Coolidge and U. S. Senator Arthur Capper came in for discussion.

"When did the president ever say anything against the Klan?" White was asked.

"He stated he was not a member of the Klan and was not in sympathy with its aims or purposes," White replied.

"Why don't you say something about Capper—he got the Klan endorsement," another heckler fired at the speaker.

"Since I'm not twins I must take on only one at a time," White shot back, adding that his fight was against Ben Paulen, republican gubernatorial candidate.

"You Kluxers didn't have anything more to do with the nomination of Capper than you did with the nomination of Coolidge," was White's parting shot. "You're just hanging on to the coat tails of a mighty fast goer."

Science Helped N. W. Reap Large Crops, Radio Fans Told

Minneapolis, Oct. 17.—Science, as well as a benevolent Providence, can claim a share of credit for the plentiful and profitable harvest of cereal crops in the northwest this year, Dr. E. C. Stakman, University of Minnesota plant pathologist, told a radio audience in a lecture from WCCO.

"The abundant yield of good quality wheat which is now bringing high prices wasn't all a matter of luck," Dr. Stakeman said. "Science had something to do with it. For many years black stem rust has been one of the limiting factors in the production of small grains in our north central states. In a single year this destructive plant disease has taken a toll of as much as 200,000,000 bushels. For the past decade the loss has averaged 50,000,000 bushel per year.

"Agricultural scientists learned that rust could be controlled by the eradication of the common barberry bush, an alternate host in the life cycle of the fungus which causes the damage. They urged the removal of all common barberry bushes in the spring wheat territory. Since 1916, when the federal government undertook leadership in the systematic eradication campaign, some 10,000,000 barberries have been destroyed."

WARLORD OF FUKIEN IN MILITARY SECTOR

POPULATION STILL REMAINS IN A PANICKY MOOD

FIRE DAMAGED ASTOR HOUSE, LARGEST FOREIGN HOTEL IN CITY

(By United Press)

Shanghai, Oct. 17.—General Sun Chuan Fang, warlord of Fukien, occupied Shanghai this afternoon and assumed control of the military district. (Fang has been a lieutenant of General Chi Hsieh Yuan, Kiangsu dictator, and leader of the allied Kiangsu-Fukien troops which defeated General Lu Yung Hsiang and captured Shanghai.) The danger in Shanghai was considered ended but the population still was panicky and thousands of fearful citizens rushed the barbed wire entanglements around the foreign quarter during the afternoon. Many women and children were trampled before guards finally drove them back.

Fire damaged the Astor House, largest foreign hotel in Shanghai, early today. One of the Chinese servants dashed from the burning building shouting that the forces of Little Hsu, the Anfu leader, were attacking the hotel. This caused a panic, most of the guests rushing into the streets in their night clothes and were unable to return for their belongings.

Negotiations are continuing for surrender of 10,000 of the defeated Chekiang troops of General Lu, still encamped outside Shanghai. They are expected to lay down their arms tomorrow.

ENGAGEMENT AT GREAT WALL OF CHINA

Osaka, Japan, Oct. 17.—Chang Tso Lin's Manchurian troops completely occupied Shan Hai Kwan, gateway city in the Great Wall of China today and captured 1,000 Chi Li troops, according to Mukden dispatches.

A Manchu detachment is reported pursuing Wu Pei Fu's troops toward Chin Wang Tao.

ARRESTED BY WOMAN FOR DRIVING HIS CAR WHILE DRUNK

St. Paul, Oct. 17.—Verily this is woman's era.

So thinks one Clarence Peterson, in some degree.

He was arrested yesterday by a woman probation officer, Mrs. Katherine Booten, for driving while drunk and escorted by her to the courthouse where she turned him over to other probation officers.

Clarence and his wife, Irene, both on probation from the municipal court, he for assault and battery, and she for drunkeness, were riding across the Jackson st. bridge when Mrs. Booten discovered them.

Mrs. Booten questioned him regarding the battered condition of his wife's face.

"I hit her a few swats. I'm no coward, but I had to hit in self defense," he explained.

Peterson's case was continued in municipal court until the ownership of the Ford car could be ascertained.

PREUS DADDY AGAIN; SECOND SON BORN

St. Paul, Oct. 17.—Little Jack Preus has a new playmate.

A second son to Gov. and Mrs. J. A. O. Preus was born at 4 a. m. today at St. Joseph's hospital, St. Paul. The new arrival weighs eight pounds. He and Mrs. Preus are reported doing well.

The governor was so excited he nearly forgot a pardon board meeting at Shakopee, and kept other members of the board waiting for an hour to start on the trip.

WEARING APPAREL

Buy It Early, Just as You Buy Your Coal Early

"Buy wearing apparel early" should be the head liner instead of "buy your coal early" said a local merchant. "There will be much disappointment a little later," he said. "The general business conditions have made merchants and manufacturers conservative and since merchants place orders for immediate needs only the manufacturer only prepares for immediate needs.

Should the weather turn cold suddenly, which is characteristic of this country, retail stocks would be depleted and desirable merchandise would be difficult to secure. Those who purchase their garments early are those who will have the greatest satisfaction in their purchase. The warm weather is largely responsible for this situation.

VAUDEVILLE AND ALL COLOR PICTURE AT NEW PARK 2 DAYS

The New Park will present Fine and Fine, a real good comedian act. These people have entitled their act "For No Reason." They sing, dance and do comedy numbers and from all reports this act has first class entertainment values.

This big act will be presented in conjunction with the "Special" picture "Toll of the Sea" starring Kenneth Harlan and Anna May Wong. This special picture is made entirely in natural colors, the second of its kind to be shown in Brainerd—the first being "Wanderer of the Wasteland." This being a sea picture, there is more opportunity for prettier coloring than there was in "Wanderer of the Wasteland," and we are informed by people who have seen this picture that it is much more beautiful than the "Wanderer of the Wasteland."

Brainerd audiences raved about the first picture to be done entirely in natural colors. They are bound to go wild over this one. This big bill will be presented at regular prices. It is hoped that the public will appreciate the efforts of the management, in securing attractions of this kind and presenting them at prices that everyone can afford, by filling the New Park to capacity on both Saturday and Sunday.

BACKUS-BROOKS CO. BATTLES N. P. RY.

Attorneys for the Backus-Brooks company of Minneapolis, minority stockholders in the Minnesota & International railway, Monday petitioned Judge William A. Cant in Federal district court in St. Paul to hold a hearing on the appointment of a receiver for the railroad.

The railroad extends from Brainerd to Big Falls, Minn., and comes into contact with the Northern Pacific, the petition says, and declared that the Northern Pacific owns 80 per cent of the stock and that it gained control of the road by fraudulent means.

This is another step in the battle that the Backus-Brooks Company is waging against the Northern Pacific railway, and which has been in progress for several years.

It is thought that the step is an attempt to force the Northern Pacific into closing the battle, while the railway company would prefer to have it tried in court on the merits of the case.

RAYMOND KOCH SINGS HERE SUNDAY

RAYMUND KOCH

Baritone Solcist at Brainerd Musical Club Sunday Afternoon, Oct. 19, at New Park Theatre

Sunday afternoon, October 19, Raymund Koch will be the baritone soloist for the Brainerd Musical club in their opening concert this season at the New Park theatre.

Little Falls heard Mr. Koch last year and the Little Falls Daily Transcript praised him as follows:

Mr. Koch's pleasing personality won his audience for him even before he started to sing. His voice is a full baritone of fine quality and power which he uses with great skill. All of his selections were given with a fine appreciation of tone values and a clear understanding of dramatic art. In the Aria from Faust his dramatic ability was most pronounced. He was much applauded and forced to give several encores.

Musical America of New York said:

Great applause was aroused by the singing of Raymund Koch, in the parts of the High Priest and Abimelech. With sonority of tone and a velvety quality, combined with fine declamation, he made his appearance a feature of the performance.

Word has been received that Miss Bertha Hagen will be the pianist for the Koch concert instead of Hubert Carlin.

BRAINERD'S ODDEST STORIES OF TODAY

It is said of Bert Orne and Carl Wright, both enthusiastic hunters, that with the opening of the 1924 season each equipped himself with a new hunting suit.

Attired in all this splendor the two on a recent hunting trip are accused of crawling on the ground such a distance in order to get a pot shot at a fine lot of blue-bills, that they wore out the fronts and knees of their new suits—and the ducks got away.

Henry I. Cohen and B. C. McNamara planned a fishing trip to one of the lakes in the northern section of the county the first of the week. Mr. Cohen was to furnish a lunch and Mr. McNamara the transportation.

The two men fished for quite a little time without favorable results, and Mac suggested that an Irishmen can always lure the finny tribe better on a full stomach, so they went back to shore for the lunch, but when they arrived at the car Mr. Cohen recalled hat he had forgotten to bring the eats. He had provided them, but couldn't remember where he had left them, so the fishing trip was a failure, from Mr. McNamara's point of view at least.

Joseph Regan Coming

The announcement of the early appearance of the new singing actor Joseph Regan, at the New Park will no doubt create much interest in amusement circles. The event will take place shortly under the direction of Augustus Pitou, a managerial name that stands for the very best. Mr. Regan's starring vehicle is a romantic comedy drama of Irish life, in three acts, entitled "Heart O'-Mine," by Harry Chapman Ford. The singing feature of the entertainment has not been overlooked by Mr. Pitou who has given his star ample opportunity to display his compelling tenor voice to advantage in a number of heart warming melodies.

Hedstrom Seven Piece Orchestra to Play, Novel Lighting Effects Have Been Produced

All Brainerd, Cuyuna range, countryside, central Minnesota in general, is invited to attend the Elks Harvest Home Dance at Lum park tonight. Every preparation has been made by the committee to receive a large crowd. This, by the way, will be the last dance in Lum park this season.

Everything has been done for the comfort of the guests. Should it turn cold, and that is hardly possible with the temperature 73 degrees above this noon, the Brainerd Electric company has supplied a battery of electric heaters to take the chill off the night air.

Novel lighting effects have been produced and it will be worth going miles to see the pumpkins glimmering ghostlike. Hedstrom's seven piece orchestra wil supply its sweetest music. Many new selections are included in their repertoire.

There will be soft drinks and cocoa served as refreshments, permission having been gained to revive that section for the night of the dance. The park board, through Commissioner Carl Wright, has been most generous in donating the use of the pavilion and lights. This has been done because the dance is for a most worthy purpose, one which will be of profit to the whole town, namely gaining funds for the entertainment of the Elks state convention in Brainerd in 1925.

THE DISTRIBUTION OF TUBERCULOSIS

(By Dr. James K. Anderson, Superintendent Deerwood Sanatarium)

Tuberculosis is found in all climates and places, from the hottest to the coldest and all races are affected, some being more susceptible than others and some more immune. The Jewish race is less susceptible than others probably due to the fact that they have always been a city people and have acquired an immunity early in childhood, and so have been more or less vaccinated.

The Negro race is very susceptible also the Indian, this latter race probably from the reason that they have always lived by themselves where the disease was not present but when they became associated with the race and tuberculosis was brought to them they did not have any immunity or vaccination against the disease and so contracted it readily and did not have any powers of resistance to ward off or stop the spread. Adult infection with tuberculosis is possible and all precautions should be taken where there are open cases or cases that are discharging germs.

Dr. Osler of England, and the late professor at Johns Hopkins Medical School calls tuberculosis the Captain of the Men of Death and it rightly deserves the name as at least one-tenth of all the deaths are due to this disease.

These figures are quoted only to show the great good that propaganda has done, as in the last twenty years the death rate from tuberculosis has been cut from 200 per one hundred thousand of population to about 97 per one hundred thousand, and propaganda has been the sole reason as no cures are today known. By propaganda we mean education of the public and better education of the physicians, early diagnosis and treatment, proper methods of living after cure is complete and a general code of hygiene for those with tuberculosis.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

OCELOT'S THOUGHTS

"Sometimes," said the Ocelot, "I am called a young, small jaguar. But I am not. A jaguar is an enemy of mine and it is not natural that I would be an enemy of myself.

"So I hope it is quite clear to you that I am not a jaguar.

"Of course I belong to the wild cat family. My home used to be in South America and there I lived in the jungle.

"You can see that I look something like a leopard, too. Yet at the same time I look like a cat, particularly while I am young.

"My fur is beautiful and my yellow and black coat is very handsome.

"My yellow eyes is very handsome, admired, and when I was young I was quite playful at times.

"But I am not young enough for that now, though I am still far from being old.

"I remember those days when I lived where it was very wild.

"Perhaps I should say that I remember those nights!

"When night-time came how I did go forth to hunt. I looked for small animals—animals I could destroy and eat.

"I naturally did not want to fight any animal who could have had the better of me.

"Oh no, I was ready to spring on the weaker ones, the ones who could do nothing but beg for mercy.

"Mercy was the last thing I would give them.

"My yellow eyes, which you admire, looked at them with a cruel, wild expression, for I pride myself on cruelty and wildness.

"I would say to them:

"'I have you now. I shall play with you for a bit, just to show I can be playful, though sometimes it is true I have been really and truly playful.

"'But not with my prey! On no, indeed. I shall be playful for a little while with you and then I shall have a delicious meal.

"'You, little animal, will be my meal. You will be a delicious meal.

"'You will be a meal fit for an ocelot. You see, my name is hard to say. I can't pronounce it very well myself. So I won't bother you to pronounce it.

"Here I Am for People to Look At."

"'I am considerate in that way.

"'Perhaps you would rather have a try at pronouncing my name, but I wouldn't want to cause you the effort.

"'No, you might become tired in trying to do this. So I will save you from becoming tired.

"'Perhaps you would rather become tired than have all your delicious qualities enjoyed by me.

"'But you see, I don't bother to find out what you want in this respect.

"'I am not really considering you at all.'

"Then I would look so wildly at them and how I would frighten them!

"I would catch birds, too.

"Well, here I am for people to look at. I am fed well. I keep well and I look well.

"But I cannot do any harm here. They see to that. So when I think, I think of the days when I did do wild things.

"My thoughts are of those I have captured and of those I have had at my mercy.

"My thoughts are not the thoughts of a gentle pussy cat. No, they are the thoughts of a wild, wild cat.

"But when pussy, gentle pussy, goes after a bird, there comes a wild look in his eyes too, and he is not so gentle with the bird.

"Oh no, he gets the bird at his mercy, too, and the bird's cries for mercy or pity do not make any difference to him.

"I will look at you now, and you will say that I am beautiful and that maybe I look as though I could be petted.

"But I wouldn't advise you to try it.

"Not that I would mind but I would only be cross to you and you and you don't interest me as food, and so I give this free advice.

"But I must think more wild thoughts now and dream of the time when I could do wild deeds," ended the ocelot.

Well Taught

"Pa," said the little mosquito, "what does perseverance mean?"

"Perseverance, my child," replied the wise old insect, "means finding a hole in a wire screen."

Ship's "Mate"

Our word "mate," the ship's officer, is derived from "gemacca," meaning an equal or companion. Today the word mate is also used in a slang sense for friend or comrade. The sea sense of the word is that the mate is the equal to the captain in capacity, able to assist him, and, if necessary, to take his place.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

OCELOT'S THOUGHTS

"Sometimes," said the Ocelot, "I am called a young, small jaguar. But I am not. A jaguar is an enemy of mine and it is not natural that I would be an enemy of myself.

"So I hope it is quite clear to you that I am not a jaguar.

"Of course I belong to the wild cat family. My home used to be in South America and there I lived in the jungle.

"You can see that I look something like a leopard, too. Yet at the same time I look like a cat, particularly while I am young.

"My fur is beautiful and my yellow and black coat is very handsome.

"My yellow eyes is very handsome, admired, and when I was young I was quite playful at times.

"But I am not young enough for that now, though I am still far from being old.

"I remember those days when I lived where it was very wild.

"Perhaps I should say that I remember those nights!

"When night-time came how I did go forth to hunt. I looked for small animals—animals I could destroy and eat.

"I naturally did not want to fight any animal who could have had the better of me.

"Oh no, I was ready to spring on the weaker ones, the ones who could do nothing but beg for mercy.

"Mercy was the last thing I would give them.

"My yellow eyes, which you admire, looked at them with a cruel, wild expression, for I pride myself on cruelty and wildness.

"I would say to them:

"'I have you now. I shall play with you for a bit, just to show I can be playful, though sometimes it is true I have been really and truly playful.

"'But not with my prey! On no, indeed. I shall be playful for a little while with you and then I shall have a delicious meal.

"'You, little animal, will be my meal. You will be a delicious meal.

"'You will be a meal fit for an ocelot. You see, my name is hard to say. I can't pronounce it very well myself. So I won't bother you to pronounce it.

"Here I Am for People to Look At."

"'I am considerate in that way.

"'Perhaps you would rather have a try at pronouncing my name, but I wouldn't want to cause you the effort.

"'No, you might become tired in trying to do this. So I will save you from becoming tired.

"'Perhaps you would rather become tired than have all your delicious qualities enjoyed by me.

"'But you see, I don't bother to find out what you want in this respect.

"'I am not really considering you at all.'

"Then I would look so wildly at them and how I would frighten them!

"I would catch birds, too.

"Well, here I am for people to look at. I am fed well. I keep well and I look well.

"But I cannot do any harm here. They see to that. So when I think, I think of the days when I did do wild things.

"My thoughts are of those I have captured and of those I have had at my mercy.

"My thoughts are not the thoughts of a gentle pussy cat. No, they are the thoughts of a wild, wild cat.

"But when pussy, gentle pussy, goes after a bird, there comes a wild look in his eyes too, and he is not so gentle with the bird.

"Oh no, he gets the bird at his mercy, too, and the bird's cries for mercy or pity do not make any difference to him.

"I will look at you now, and you will say that I am beautiful and that maybe I look as though I could be petted.

"But I wouldn't advise you to try it.

"Not that I would mind but I would only be cross to you and you and you don't interest me as food, and so I give this free advice.

"But I must think more wild thoughts now and dream of the time when I could do wild deeds," ended the ocelot.

Well Taught

"Pa," said the little mosquito, "what does perseverance mean?"

"Perseverance, my child," replied the wise old insect, "means finding a hole in a wire screen."

Ship's "Mate"

Our word "mate," the ship's officer, is derived from "gemacca," meaning an equal or companion. Today the word mate is also used in a slang sense for friend or comrade. The sea sense of the word is that the mate is the equal to the captain in capacity, able to assist him, and, if necessary, to take his place.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 17, 1924

THE OUTERS' PARADISE

RESIDENTS of other states than Minnesota who believe that Northern Minnesota is only a summer resort should be spending their vacation in this section at the present time. The wonderful change in the foliage; the delightful contrasts between the varihued leaves of the maple and the deep green of the pine; the crisp October air; the roadways carpeted with fallen leaves and the many byroads now easily traveled by automobiles make this section a wonder spot indeed, remarks the Bemidji Daily Pioneer, and we repeat the same lovely October conditions pervade the Brainerd lake region.

The nature lover finds keen enjoyment in Northern Minnesota in October while the sportsman can locate no place where his returns are any greater. The Dispatch two years ago worked energetically to have the tourist season extended to include the glorious months of September and October. Captain William H. Fawcett last year kept Breezy Point Lodge open September and October and this year continued open all September.

It takes constant publicity, however, to impress people with the beauties of Minnesota's September and October months.

PROGRESSIVE AND REACTIONARY

THESE words, "progressive" and "reactionary," are much in use in political campaigns and Meredith Nicholson discussed them in the Yale Review. The matter of definition is a delicate one, says Nicholson. The word "progressive" as now employed has assumed connotations that are likely to puzzle the lexicographer of tomorrow as he peruses 20th century political literature for enlightenment.

A righteous demand for honesty in public administration can hardly be called progressive; instances of progress in that direction are as old as history, says Nicholson. Reactionary, too, is a term used rather loosely, with all manner of significance. Manifestly a term of reproach and contumely, it is much easier of definition than progressive.

CONNECTICUT mourns the death of its senator, Frank B. Brandegee. Ill health and financial losses are believed to have impelled him to commit suicide. He was a rich bachelor and lived a secluded life. According to our way of thinking, Brandegee would be living yet if some good woman had married him and put an end to his bachelor seclusion. What a single man often thinks is unsurmountable trouble in finances and other affairs, is only humdrum existence in the life of a married man.

YOU'VE often heard of the family trouble engendered when Friend Wife refuses to boost the work or take an interest in Friend Husband's livelihood. Witness Michael Savoy, chef in a Norwalk, Connecticut, restaurant, who was fined $50 for beating his bride of two weeks because she ate a meal in another restaurant. If Husband's cooking is good enough for the regular customers, it ought not to displease the chef's wife.

SHERMAN ROGERS, an editor of Outlook, was injured in an automobile accident. He now lies in a St. Paul hospital bed, but continues writing just the same. He was studying the economic and political situation, and may now have to include the automobile situation too.

MRS. L. P. ORDWAY, JR., a pretty matron of St. Paul, danced most of the dances with the Prince of Wales at the Saddle & Cycle club function in Chicago. You wonder why? Our guess is that she is a good dancer and the prince let her "lead."

ANNIE LAURIE, who disposes of problems of the heart, got this poser in the mail the other day: "When you have been going with a boy and are tired of his company, how is the best way to get rid of him without making him your enemy?"

THE new First Methodist Episcopal church in Chicago is a skyscraper whose spire is 556 feet high and stands in the heart of the loop district. This is one congregation that does not have to worry about paying its minister.

THE Shenandoah waits for favorable weather along a short coast line, while the ZR-3 braved thousands of miles of ocean without a filling station, hangar, cruiser or mast to tie to in case of emergency.

REPRESENTATIVE SOL BLOOM wants baseball made a federal matter, and is in favor of having the government run the national game. Imagine Congress investigating a world series scandal.

BECAUSE a Des Moines, Iowa, radio station refused Senator La Follette broadcasting privileges, he roars against the whole radio world and says it all needs regulation by congress.

ST. PAUL is renaming and renumbering its streets. They are so backward in the capital city that the Philadelphia plan of 100 numbers to a block has not even been adopted.

INFANT mortality has decreased nearly 50 per cent in the last 25 years. A baby these days has more chances to live and is insured better care too.

WE are doing a lot to educate our voters. Somebody suggests that some of the candidates running for office may well absorb some education too.

NOBODY gains anything, the world isn't made any better, when some one strives to capitalize hate for selfish purposes.

NOWADAYS all members of the family have their hair cut and the bill is something to make father ponder.

BIG potatoes do not bring as much in the markets as the graded kind conforming to regular standards.

WHEN Ford said much of history was bunk, the world stared aghast.

NOT SATISFACTORY

A Scotch farmer had the misfortune to get his barn burned, but he was well insured and went to an Aberdeen insurance office to collect the bawbees.

The official informed him that they intended to replace the barn, and the farmer immediately canceled his wife's policy.

"If anything comes over Jean," he explained, "you're not gaun to replace her."

A Petition

One citizen of Plunk Center stepped up to another and asked: "Will you sign this petition?"

"What's it fur?"

"Hain't read it myself; but if you're particular I kin find out."

"Nunno. Glad to sign any petition of yourn."

Human Nature

"Don't your constituents want their taxes reduced?"

"Yes," answered Senator Sorghum. "But human nature is peculiar. A number of them are willing to pay a lot of taxes themselves if they can see somebody else paying a still higher rate."

HOW GREAT MEN MAKE LOVE

AS REVEALED BY THEIR LOVE LETTERS

By JOSEPH KAYE

(© by Wheeler Syndicate, Inc.)

GOV. JOHN WINTHROP AND MARGARET WINTHROP

GOV. JOHN WINTHROP was a distinguished Englishman who was appointed governor of Massachusetts and upon whose principles largely the commonwealth of Massachusetts was established. The correspondence he left shows that he was as loving a husband as he was a wise leader, and both the governor's letters and those of his wife preserve in a charming manner the tenderness of their love for each other.

"My deare Husband," wrote Mrs. Winthrop, "I know not how to expresse my love to thee or my desyres of thy wished wellfayre, but my hart is well knowne to thee, which will make relation of my affections, though they may be smalle in appearance; my thoughts are nowe on our great change and alteration of our corse heere, which I beseech the Lord to blesse us in, & my good Husband cheare up thy hart in the expectation of God's goodnesse to us, & let nothing dismaye or discourage thee; if the Lord be with us, who can be against us: my greefe is the feare of stayinge behinde thee, but I must leave all to the goode providence of God. I thank the Lord we are all here in reasonable goode health. I received a letter since you went from my sonne John, which brout goode Nuse from Nue E.: I praye thank him for it, I will rite to him if I have time, & thus with my best respect to thyeselfe, brother and sister D.: I commit you to God and rest,

"Your faythfull wife,
"MARGARET WINTHROP."

To which Winthrop replied:

"Deare. . . . I am still detayned from thee but it is by the Lord, who hath a greater interest in me than thyselfe, when His work is donne He will restore me to thee againe to our mutual comfort: Amen. I thank thee for thy sweet Lre (letter): my heart was with thee to have written to thee every daye, but business would not permitt me. I suppose thou hearest much newes from hence; it may be, some grievious to thee: but be not troubled, I assure thee things goe well, & they must needes doe so, for God is with us and thou shalt see a happy issue. I hope to be with thee tomorrowe and a frend or 2: I suppose. So I kisse my sweet wife and rest,

"Thine,
"Jo: WINTHROP."

Safe

A bright little girl, aged four, and her brother, aged six, were spending the night with their aunt. When bedtime came the aunt asked them how they said their prayers. The little girl answered: "Sometimes I say them on muddy's knees and sometimes to the side of the bed."

"And how about you, little boy?" asked the aunt.

"Oh, I don't need to pray. I sleep with daddy."—Everybody's Magazine.

Making Money Fast

"Well," said the lawyer, "have you decided to take my advice and pay this bill of mine?" "Y-e-s," stammered the client. "Very well," said the lawyer. Then he turned to his clerk and ordered him to add "5£ to Mr. Smith's bill," for further advice.—London Tit-Bits.

For A Year Stomach Trouble Brought Agony, Says Tanlac Restored Her Health.

"Tanlac has taken me from an egg and milk diet and made my appetite and digestion so good that I have gained 11 pounds," is the striking statement made recently by Mrs. Arthur J. Young, 455 E. Page St., St. Paul, Minn.

"For fully a year, stomach trouble caused me an agony of suffering. I hadn't any appetite and could scarcely retain a thing I did eat. My nerves were so unstrung that many a night I would get up and walk the floor, hardly closing my eyes in sleep. For a long time I lived on eggs and milk alone and would have to take to my bed for six weeks at a time.

"But Tanlac has put me on my feet, in good health again. I now have a splendid appetite, the stomach trouble is gone, and I sleep like a child. I will never stop praising Tanlac."

GOV. JOHN WINTHROP was a distinguished Englishman who was appointed governor of Massachusetts and upon whose principles largely the commonwealth of Massachusetts was established. The correspondence he left shows that he was as loving a husband as he was a wise leader, and both the governor's letters and those of his wife preserve in a charming manner the tenderness of their love for each other.

"My deare Husband," wrote Mrs. Winthrop, "I know not how to expresse my love to thee or my desyres of thy wished wellfayre, but my hart is well knowne to thee, which will make relation of my affections, though they may be smalle in appearance; my thoughts are nowe on our great change and alteration of our corse heare, which I beseech the Lord to blesse us in, & my good Husband cheare up thy hart in the expectation of God's goodnesse to us, & let nothing dismaye or discourage thee; if the Lord be with us, who can be against us: my greefe is the feare of stayinge behinde thee, but I must leave all to the goode providence of God. I thank the Lord we are all here in reasonable goode health. I received a letter since you went from my sonne John, which brout goode Nuse from Nue E.: I praye thank him for it, I will rite to him if I have time, & thus with my best respect to thyeselfe, brother and sister D.: I commit you to God and rest,

"Your faythfull wife,
"MARGARET WINTHROP."

To which Winthrop replied:

"Deare. . . . I am still detayned from thee but it is by the Lord, who hath a greater interest in me than thyselfe, when His work is donne He will restore me to thee againe to our mutual comfort: Amen. I thank thee for thy sweet Lre (letter): my heart was with thee to have written to thee every daye, but business would not permitt me. I suppose thou hearest much newes from hence; it may be, some grievious to thee: but be not troubled, I assure thee things goe well, & they must needes doe so, for God is with us and thou shalt see a happy issue. I hope to be with thee tomorrowe and a frend or 2: I suppose. So I kisse my sweet wife and rest,

"Thine,

Safe

A bright little girl, aged four, and her brother, aged six, were spending the night with their aunt. When bedtime came the aunt asked them how they said their prayers. The little girl answered: "Sometimes I say them on muddy's knees and sometimes to the side of the bed."

"And how about you, little boy?" asked the aunt.

"Oh, I don't need to pray. I sleep with daddy."—Everybody's Magazine.

Making Money Fast

"Well," said the lawyer, "have you decided to take my advice and pay this bill of mine?" "Y-e-s," stammered the client. "Very well," said the lawyer. Then he turned to his clerk and ordered him to add "5£ to Mr. Smith's bill," for further advice.—London Tit-Bits.

MRS. YOUNG LIVED ON MILK AND EGGS

For A Year Stomach Trouble Brought Agony, Says Tanlac Restored Her Health.

"Tanlac has taken me from an egg and milk diet and made my appetite and digestion so good that I have gained 11 pounds," is the striking statement made recently by Mrs. Arthur J. Young, 455 E. Page St., St. Paul, Minn.

"For fully a year, stomach trouble caused me an agony of suffering. I hadn't any appetite and could scarcely retain a thing I did eat. My nerves were so unstrung that many a night I would get up and walk the floor, hardly closing my eyes in sleep. For a long time I lived on eggs and milk alone and would have to take to my bed for six weeks at a time.

"But Tanlac has put me on my feet, in good health again. I now have a splendid appetite, the stomach trouble is gone, and I sleep like a child. I will never stop praising Tanlac."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 million bottles sold.

FASHION COMPELS SLENDER 'UNDIES' SAYS HEDDA HOYT

FAVORS DIRECTOIRE VERSION OF THE CHEMISE THIS FALL

LINGERIE CONFORMS TO THE LINES OF THE FIGURE

By HEDDA HOYT
(Fashion Editor of the United Press)
(Written for the United Press)

New York, N. Y., Oct. 17.—
Mary is a slender Miss—
Defies all Madam Grundies.
Her figure's almost like an eel's
Cause she wears slender undies!

To attain a slender appearance these days one must wear "slender" undergarments. Ten years ago almost all women looked plump—because of the heavy undergarments which added inches and inches to their circumferences.

The directoire version of the chemise which has recently arrived from Paris will undoubtedly be taken up by Americans who like the idea of lingerie conforming to the lines of the figure. Women are tiring of the ungainly step-ins which have no waistline and also tiring of the separate garments, drawers and brassiere bodice. Hence the advisibility of the one-piece garment which adheres to the figure and conforms with the lines of the present-day gown.

Directoire undies are very simple affairs with the bodice and drawers connected by a narrow belt at the normal waistline and the garment buttoning down the back, or the side-front. The bodice is more or less tight-fitting and has straps over the shoulders. The narrow belt is made to fit easily about the waistline and the fullness of the drawers is concentrated at the sides, leaving a flat front and back effect. The drawers are left open at the sides and are usually outlined with a border of silk of a contrasting color and the same border effect extends about the top of the bodice. Many models use inverted darts over the hips which add even more slenderness. Almost all underwear is being built along the lines of the frocks of today. Some women go as far as to wear only the thinnest and most clinging Jersey silks under their evening frocks.

Styles on Fifth Avenue

As days grow longer, skirts and waistlines grow higher. Recently one sees many frocks on Fifth Avenue with the belt placed at the normal waistline and skirts all appear both scant and short. Where inverted pleats and circular panels are set into the skirts they are skillfully maneuvered so that scantness is achieved in spite of the actual fullness of the hemline.

Cloth coats of conspicuously new Fall variety are being worn by most of the smartly dressed women of New York. One sees few suits and these few are of the 'ensemble' variety—dressy types with the three-quarter length coat matching the one-piece frock beneath it and the whole lavishly fur-trimmed. Black coats of slender lines with fur collars and borders are those most evident. Hats remain small and rather tailored and one sees more velvets than felts. Black velvet seems to have the preference in spite of the fact that windows are displaying purples, jentas and greens. Several large black velvet hats are seen and these are either large variations of the cloche or their brims are turned abruptly upwards in back with the mushroom effect in front. Even the larger shapes are but slightly trimmed and many of them are entirely untrimmed.

There is a complete absence of pink toned hosiery. No well dressed women are wearing them on the street and even for evening wear they are being replaced by silver tones. Brown shoes are much in evidence and hosiery of matching or somewhat lighter shade is worn with them.

Young Misses are appearing in sports clothes which prove that plaids are an important factor this season. Huge plaids and plaids of vivid shades are being worn in topcoats and dresses and suit scarfs. Even the felt hat follows the vogue with plaid ribbon trimming.

Clothes Line Loss

LaCrosse, Wis., Oct. 17.—Mrs. Abby Burton of this city, after hanging out a collection of furs, winter wraps and blankets, went downtown on a shopping tour. On returning home and going to the yard to gather in her treasures, Mrs. Burton found the line had been cleaned of everything. Police were called in and set out to locate the thieves. While still worrying over her loss, Mrs. Burton received a telephone call from a neighbor inquiring if she had lost any articles. Describing the goods taken, Mrs. Burton was informed they were all at the neighbor's home. It developed that two dogs had pulled every blanket and garment from the Burton clothes line and had dragged them to the home garage, where they were found uninjured, but very dusty.

Swearing on the Bible

The custom of swearing on the Bible is taken from an ancient practice of the Jews who on taking oaths put their hands on the cases which contained manuscripts of parts of the Old Testament.

Odd Fact About Tobacco

A striking feature in the history of tobacco is the fact that its use has become so universal in the European countries where it was formerly so bitterly condemned—even punished with death—while it has become quite rare among its inventors, the Indians of Mexico. Very few of these now ever smoke, and none of them take snuff.—Exchange.

"PERFECT LOVER" IS NOW WEDDED

PRINCIPALS IN DOUBLE DIVORCE NOW UNITED IN MATRIMONY

(By United Press)

Chicago, Oct. 17.—Mrs. Shirley Knox Hall-Quest and her "perfect lover," Frederick W. Hart, principals in a double divorce case, are united in matrimony. They were married last night and left for the home of the bride's parents in Minneapolis.

Dr. Albert Lawrence Hall-Quest, university professor, divorced his wife here two weeks ago to clear the way for her to marry Hart. Mrs. Rosamond Hart divorced her husband in Cincinnati, charging abandonment.

Hart and Mrs. Hall-Quest met here last night for the first time since the professor secured his divorce. Mrs. Hall-Quest slipped out of the city from the apartment she occupied with Hart when the affair became public property.

The ceremony was performed at the Somerset Hotel by Judge D. E. Sullivan. Witnesses were a girl from Hart's office here, a business associate and a newspaper reporter.

The bride broke down at the conclusion of the ceremony and Hart put his arms about her. They plan to spend their honeymoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Knox, who are understood to have forgiven their daughter.

MOTHER HOPES DAUGHTER IS HAPPY

Minneapolis, Oct. 17.—Mrs. William Knox, Mrs. Hart's mother, is preparing to welcome her daughter and the latter's new husband, the "perfect lover."

Mrs. Knox said she had not received word of the coming of the newly wed couple but if they do come they will be welcome.

"I have never met Major Hart," Mrs. Knox said, "but if Shirley is happy I am satisfied."

Mrs. Knox spent the morning busily engaged about her home and in making a number of trips to the corner grocery, indicating she was preparing for the arrival of the couple.

TO WIPE OUT PARTY LINES IN NEBRASKA

(By United Press)

Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 17—An amendment to the constitution abolishing party lines in all primaries is to go before the voters of Nebraska on November 4th.

Under the provisions of the amendment, the party circle would be banished in all elections and in primaries candidates for nomination to office, would be required to run as individuals.

Following the primaries of last spring, when the majority of the nominations on the progressive party ticket were circulated, the signatures were validated and the amendment ordered placed on the ballot by Secretary of State Charles W. Pool recently.

Gov. Charles W. Bryan, democratic vice-presidential candidate, was one of the most active endorsers of the elimination of party lines in the primaries.

CAPTURED FANATIC MAY BE VANISHED DAVID CULT MONARCH

Kansas City, Oct. 17.—A religious fanatic giving the name of Jesus Christ Revealed, and who police believe may be "King" Benjamin Purnell of the House of David cult, was being held following his arrest with 10 followers in a raid here.

All those taken in the raid denied the leader was Purnell who disappeared from the House of David colony at Benton Harbor, Mich., in January, 1923.

"I am Jesus Christ Revealed, and I was born in Jerusalem," the aged prisoner told police.

"I do not know my age. I am so ancient I have lost all track of time."

Police telegraphed a description of the man to Michigan authorities.

$1 Tardy Tax Used to Start Conscience Fund

St. Paul, Oct. 17.—The state insurance department today started a conscience fund.

Rich Fabrics and Beaded Novelties

French Women Approve Elaborate Materials; Also Chic Decorations.

Elaborate fabrics are generally receiving the favorable consideration of the beau monde at smart French resorts, says a Paris fashion writer in the New York Herald-Tribune. At Deauville Gabrielle Chanel is showing a new tunic dress made of a velvet brocade on a mousseline background, the black and white being artistically merged. The material is such as to need no embellishment. Chanel uses it to make an almost full-length tunic under which is just visible a black lace petticoat.

The continuance of beaded effects is one of the surprising features at Le Touquet. Jenny is showing a half-dozen new models with bead embroidery. All are in tunic form over tight and short foundation slips. Those in white are often worn over black, and from one side is frequently suspended a brilliant splash of color in the form of plaited chiffon sash ends, ostrich feather-trimmed panels or cascading flowers.

For autumn Jenny is developing some of these beaded models in velvet. This is an obvious effort to carry the beaded velvet dress over into another season. Its success, however, is still problematic. This designer has one lovely model in a soft beige crepe de chine inset with narrow bands of self-tone chiffon. The crepe de chine shows an allover beaded design, while the chiffon is plain. The whole is worn over a slip of coral pink satin which gives a rosy tone to the tan color and emphasizes the narrow chiffon panels. Underneath the tunic, which is only about three-quarters long, there is a finely plaited skirt of chiffon over a foundation of pink satin. Jenny has developed this same model in a beige batiste with an allover embroidery and incrustations of real lace, all dipped in tea color.

Formal affairs at Deauville indicate a continuance of ostrich as the most popular garniture for the dancing frock. The reason for this is patent. The trend toward vivid hues as a supplement to black-and-white has been particularly evident in the robes du soir, and the feather of the ostrich lends itself readily to the various color trends. Apparently no object can assume a more translucent appearance than these feather fronds which have an unequaled ability to temper the garishness of the most brilliant shades.

Some of the early summer vogues are being furiously revived at Deauville, and the object is to ascertain whether or not they may be retained for the autumn and winter seasons.

Beige broadcloth is used to build this handsome coat for a little miss. The beaver collar blends beautifully with the material, and the caped back keeps the shoulders warm.

Latest Trifles for Girl With Abbreviated Locks

The demand for accessories that have to do with the bob or shingle is increasing fast and a number of engaging novelties intended to add to the comfort and appearance of the shorn head are constantly appearing. Ornamental coverings to keep the locks in order on every and all occasions are designed. Some, when need is urgent, completely cover the head, and even the wig is now quite usual.

Caps of silk cord, floss, narrow ribbon, put together in lattice pattern, are in popular demand, especially for motoring, because they hold the hair in place and are much cooler than a solid covering or even one of net or chiffon. Some are charmingly becoming.

Among the latest trifles, apropos of the bob, is a little comb made especially for the taming of those waves that must needs be put in their place several times a day. The comb is fitted in a case of leather and may be easily carried in the purse.

HOW GREAT MEN MAKE LOVE

GENERAL SHERMAN AND ELLEN EWING

GENERAL SHERMAN'S love letters are models of what love letters are not supposed to be. When his father died in 1829 he went to live with the family of the Hon. Thomas Ewing of Ohio, who was then senator from his state. The lad was treated as a son and the friendship which sprang up between him and the senator's daughter, Ellen, became deeper as the years went by until the couple were married. But in the lengthy correspondence which passed between Sherman and his fiancee the following, written from West Point when he was nineteen and Ellen fourteen, is one of the most endearing letters:

"West Point, N. Y., Nov. 1, 1832.

"I have been intending for some time to write to you for the purpose of acknowledging the reception of those slippers which you were kind enough to make for me some time since. They were brought by William Irvin. They fit exactly, but are so neat and beautiful as to preclude all ideas of my ever wearing them. Indeed, it would amount to sacrilege for me to do so. I will keep them carefully in remembrance of her who gave them and hope that at some time or other I will be able to present something in return as acceptable as these are to me. Why is it that you have been silent so long? Did you not receive my last, written almost immediately upon reception of yours? I have been anxious lest you may have been unwell or had returned home, and hope that I may soon be relieved by hearing from you."

Probably upon Miss Ewing's pointed comment on the politeness of his epistles, Sherman answered:

"I cannot express how great was my pleasure upon receiving this morning your very kind letter. I can only show my sense of it by punctuality.

"I sincerely thank you for pardoning me the apparent adherence to ceremony in my letter to you, for, believe me, no one regrets the disposition of this world to surround the sweetest and best pleasures of this life with the cold garb of formality, and if at any time I should bow to its dictates it is because I fear that a departure from them would give offence."

A SCHOOL FOR VOTERS HERE ON OCTOBER 21

Mrs. Walter J. Marcley of Minneapolis Will Preside in Chamber of Commerce Rooms

SESSION FROM 2:30 TO 5:30 P. M.

Mill City Matron Well Qualified to Act as an Instructor in School

Mrs. Walter J. Marcley, of Minneapolis, will hold a one-session school for voters at the Chamber of Commerce on Tuesday afternoon, October 21st, beginning at 2:30 and closing at 5:30 o'clock.

Mrs. Marcley will tell why she believes that everyone should vote on November 4th. Her opinion is based on a thorough study of world government and social economics made during the last five years.

Voters who attend this school will have an opportunity to unburden themselves on any questions about "government and politics," for that is Mrs. Marcley's special subject. She organized the department of efficiency in government for the Minnesota league, and outlined the first program of activity for the league in that direction. She gave up her work in this department to attend the University of Minnesota, where she received her M. A. degree in government and politics last June. She is second vice president of the Minneapolis league.

Mrs. Marcley was born in Ohio. For sixteen years she was on the staff of the Minneapolis public library in fact she was one of the original staff of the library in Minneapolis. She has been particularly interested in the new proposed city manager plan for the government of Minneapolis.

One of the doggerels that has popularized Mrs. Marcley's schools is the following:

I do not ask you, folks to pause
To hear me speak of Coolidge, Dawes,
Davis or Bryan, LaFollette
I hold no plea for this or that
Republican or Democrat.
I'm here to see that you remember
The fourth day of next November—
Get out your book and make a note,
And when it comes
GET OUT AND VOTE!

Dorcas Society

The Dorcas society of the Swedish Bethany church will be entertained by Mrs. J. Stenberg and Mrs. J. A. Erickson, at the church on Friday evening, October 17th. A good program has been prepared. Everyone is welcome.

ELECTION DAY, NOVEMBER 4TH

Women Voters League Discusses Measures to Get Out the Vote

PLAN INFORMATION BOOTHS

Will Explain Technique of Voting, But no Advice Given Regarding Candidates

At a board meeting of the League of Women Voters held at the home of the chairman, Mrs. W. C. Cobb, last Monday evening, plans were discussed for getting out the vote on the next "Defense Day"—Nov. 4th.

A committee was appointed to have slogans printed regarding the importance of voting, and placed in popular store windows.

It was decided to have information booths in N. E. Brainerd, S. E. Brainerd and in the business section of the city on the Friday before election. The arrangements for these booths was left in charge of the chairman of the Get Out the Vote committee, Miss Myrne Downie. Any questions pertaining to the technique of voting will be answered at such booths, but no advice will be given as to what candidates to vote for. As the ballot for the high school site requires both a positive and a negative vote, it is quite important that the attention of the voters be called to that fact. State and city amendments will be explained at these booths, and all visitors will be urged to not neglect to vote on these.

A Citizenship School will be held on Tuesday, October 21st, beginning at half past two. This school will be in charge of Mrs. Marclay of Minneapolis. Mrs. Marclay is known to a number of Brainerd people as her husband was formerly head of the sanatarium at Walker.

The same day a dinner will be given at the Episcopal church parlors for the girls who will cast their first vote on November 4th. There will be a separate table for these new citizens who will be the guests of the League.

RICH MENU OFFERED FOR SATURDAY'S F. B.

By Henry L. Farrell
(United Press Sports Editor)

New York, Oct. 17.—Most everything that might be ordered by a famished football fan is on the menu arranged for tomorrow, the biggest day of the youthful season.

Three of the most important intersectional games of the season are features of the program that is choked from the top to the bottom line with interesting games.

Because of its tradition and the habit the westerners have of springing something sensational in the way of new football, the game between Notre Dame and the Army in New York will be the biggest game of the day.

The first visit of Notre Dame to the east, always an early-season event, is sort of a fashion show for fall football and the game is followed even more closely by the men who follow coaching as a profession than by the neutral fans who get a thrill out of fast, hard football.

Notre Dame will exhibit that great backfield which thrilled the east last year— Stuhldreher, Layden, Crowley and Miller—and if Knute Rockne follows precedent, he probably will put on display a couple of sensational sophomores as a promise—"Here's what you'll have to beat next year."

The Army, as a rule, runs more to power than brilliance, but this year the Cadets will have Harry Wilson, the All-American back from last year's Penn State eleven, and Wilson is one of the best and most spectacular runners in the game.

Last year the Army-Notre Dame game conflicted with one of the games of the world's series, and it made itself felt appreciably on the gate at the baseball game.

* * * * * * * * *

Penn State is down south to play a return game with Georgia Tech and a good hard game is assured. The two teams have enjoyed the friendliest of relations and their games in the past two years have been features of the season. Penn State may not be as strong as last year, as several of the players upon whom Hugo Bezdek depended as a nucleus for his team, got into scholastic troubles and were disqualified for the season.

While it isn't the most important game of the season, the battle at Lincoln between Colgate and the powerful Nebraska team will be one of the hardest played and most interesting games of the day. No teams in the country play harder football than Colgate and Nebraska.

MICHIGAN-ILLINOIS GAME SATURDAY

By HENRY L. FARRELL

Chicago, Oct. 17.—Out here in the west where men are men and where football teams are made out of them, no one wants to discuss anything but the battle impending at Urbana between Michigan and Illinois in the first big game of the western conference season Saturday.

More than 70,000 spectators are expected in the new Memorial stadium which Illinois has erected to honor the Illinois men who went down in France. Double the number of seats could have been sold if there were places for that number. The athletic office in Urbana reports that most everyone in the west wanted to see Michigan and Illinois play.

Regardless of what they think in the east, this Michigan-Illinois game is the biggest game of the day on any field.

There is more real enthusiasm around here than there has been down around New Haven or Boston before the Yale-Harvard games and Chicago hasn't the intimate personal touch with Illinois that New Haven and Boston have with Yale and Harvard. In Philadelphia the taxi drivers ask you for the score when Tilden is playing tennis, but they show only a casual interest in the Pennsylvania team.

There is real enthusiasm out here about football, and it is contagious. Only a few hours suffice to make an easterner feel "who told me they had football teams in the east?"

Outside of the great spectacle that it is sure to be, the Michigan-Illinois game promises to be a football treat. Two teams from two great football systems will meet with a rivalry hanging over them from last year when they tied for the championship of the Big Ten.

Michigan hasn't been defeated since 1921, and Illinois hasn't dropped a game since 1922. Steger, the Michigan captain, never has played on a losing team, even in high school.

Illinois is the favorite to win because of the great Harold Grange, one of the fastest players that ever ran a gridiron.

BADGER CAPTAIN BACK IN HARNESS; TEAM WORKS HARD

Madison, Wis., Oct. 17.—Capt. Harris of the Badgers was back at half in last night's practice and the return of the Badger leader served to instill even more fight and pep into the Wisconsin men.

The varsity tore into the scrubs and the yearlings like wild men fairly sweeping them off their feet.

Wisconsin is set, primed and ready for a fight of fights Saturday stirred by criticism the footballers are all prepared to go out upon the Camp Randall field Saturday and there offer up their all for their university.

Last night after the Badger captain was put back upon the eleven after being on the second team for three days the machine worked better than at any time before this year.

Larson was at quarter, and the Harmon brothers at the other half and fullback.

Coach Jack Ryan drove his charges at full speed and kept them hard at it until after dark.

The Freshmen used the Minnesota formations, but the varsity, working smoothly with every man up on his toes, tore through at will. Capt. Harris was especially effective.

The only open position is right end. Blackman, Solbra and Wiswell are battling madly to gain the wing job against the Gophers.

Burrus, who started last week, will not be able to play.

Missouri Upsets Dope

University of Missouri sprung a surprise in beating Chicago 3 to 0. Although Missouri is a strong factor in the Missouri valley conference, no one had figured Stagg's Maroons would have to knuckle under. A large part of the credit is due to Harry Kipke, now coaching at Missouri.

It was named in honor of Joseph Henry, who contributed greatly to the world's store of knowledge regarding electricity. BRAINERD TO MEET CROSBY-IRONTON HIGH

FOOTBALL GAME SATURDAY, OCT. 18, 3 P. M. AT CROSBY FIELD

RESERVES USED TO PLUG GAPS IN BRAINERD REGULAR LINEUP

(Contributed)

The Brainerd high school football team will meet the Crosby-Ironton aggregation at the Crosby field this Saturday, Oct. 18, at 3 p. m.

Although several of the regulars are ineligible to play Saturday, Coach Krueger has picked from the reserves a team which we believe will make things interesting for Crosby.

Almost all the changes will be made in the backfield. Putz will be shifted to fullback, Marshall taking Putz's halfback position. Lyddon will appear in his regular position and Gile will be in the quarterback position.

This combination, although it has not the weight of the regular backfield, is faster, and any of the football fans who go to Crosby to see the game will be well repaid for their efforts. It is hoped that the team will be followed by a large number of rooters, who do much to help the team win.

ROCKFORD, ILL., COUNTRY PAPER FEEDS SCANDAL

UNNAMED FAN SAYS OTHER PLAYERS INVOLVED IN GIANT AFFAIR

LANDIS SUMMONS PITCHER EMIL WYDE TO EXPLAIN THINGS

(By United Press)

Chicago, Oct. 17.—Judge K. M. Landis, baseball commissioner, has summoned Pitcher Emil Wyde of the Pittsburgh club to explain a story in which Wyde is credited with having stated that more than one player was approached in the scandal involving Jimmy O'Connell and Cozy Dolan of the New York Giants. The story, printed in a Rockford, Ill., paper and based on an interview by an unnamed fan, states that Wyde said other players on the Phillies' team aside from Heinie Sand, shortstop, had been approached.

"I want to find out all there is to know about the whole matter," Landis said.

Wyde lives at Freeport, Ill., about 50 miles from Rockford. Landis expects him here today or tomorrow.

Vaudeville at New Park Saturday and Sunday, Regular Prices

The New Park will present Fine & Fine, two clever comedians, in conjunction with the "special" picture "Toll of the Sea," which is entirely in natural colors, on Saturday and Sunday at regular prices.

"Hoedown" and "Breakdown"

The word "hoedown" originated among negroes in the South and was common even before the Civil war. Nobody has been able to trace its origin. It means a noisy, riotous or disorderly dance, and especially a peculiar dance of the colored people. The word "breakdown" is used in the same sense.

Charles Ray in Old, Familiar Role But a New and Powerful Story

"Dynamite Smith" fulfills Thomas H. Ince's promise that he would bring Charles Ray back to the old familiar role of the gawky, earnest, bashful youth that endeared him to millions in "Dynamite Smith," which opens at the Lyceum Theatre Sunday for a two day run.

The first thrill comes when Ray as a timid reporter on his first assignment, attempts to cover a murder in a low dive on the Barbary Coast. Wallace Beery, as "Slugger" Rourke, the proprietor, has good reasons for not wanting the newspapers to get hold of the story. He is a brute and bully of the deepest dye and in outwitting him, Ray is both pathetic and amusing. Violet, beaten by her husband, the Slugger, and forced to dance for the amusement of the riff raff, enlists the boy's sympathies; and the second big thrill comes when Violet, her baby and Smith, with others, are snowed in on the Yukon. Death stares them in the face, but they are saved by Smith, who accomplishes the amazing feat of breaking through the storm with dead Violet's baby in his arms. No one of that party knew he was driven by fear of Rourke, who had trailed him. Rourke, a greater enemy than starvation or freezing and wolves!

After such productions as "To the Last Man," "The Ten Commandments," "The Stranger" and "Icebound," in which he wore hickory shirts, ill-fitting clothes and had his hair all mussed up, the popular Paramount player said he felt like a new man in "Unguarded Women."

Perfect Colors in "Toll of the Sea"

The announcement of the presentation of the first Technicolor motion picture in natural colors, "The Toll of the Sea," scheduled for the New Park on Saturday and Sunday, should prove a powerful magnet for people interested in natural color photography. The new process by which "The Toll of the Sea," has been done is, according to authentic advance statements of competent critics, the fullest development of the long sought-for invention which makes possible the presentation of people as they really appear in actual life.

The principal inventor of the Technicolor process is Dr. Daniel F. Comstock, a graduate of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and foreign institutions. For seven years he and his co-workers have given research to the problem, and the result of their experiments is shown in their first picture.

"Vengeance of Pierre," Story of Canadian North Woods, at Lyceum Saturday

Lester Cuneo takes another big stride toward demonstrating his versatility before the camera in his latest photoplay drama "The Vengeance of Pierre," which comes to the Lyceum Theatre for Saturday only.

This well known actor is not content to be the leading character of the story alone. He insists that there be combined with his part some characterization, and of late he is assuming role of a character lead. In "The Vengeance of Pierre," he plays the part of a French-Canadian woodsman. The story is one filled with drama of virile men of the great outdoors. It starts with a big wrestling match and keeps up a fight-tempo through the five reels of rapid fire drama. Henry McCarty has woven into this unusual story some fine character types that are portrayed by a very capable supporting cast.

RICH MENU OFFERED FOR SATURDAY'S F. B.

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

New York, Oct. 17.—Most everything that might be ordered by a famished football fan is on the menu arranged for tomorrow, the biggest day of the youthful season.

Three of the most important intersectional games of the season are features of the program that is choked from the top to the bottom line with interesting games.

Because of its tradition and the habit the westerners have of springing something sensational in the way of new football, the game between Notre Dame and the Army in New York will be the biggest game of the day.

The first visit of Notre Dame to the east, always an early-season event, is sort of a fashion show for fall football and the game is followed even more closely by the men who follow coaching as a profession than by the neutral fans who get a thrill out of fast, hard football.

Notre Dame will exhibit that great backfield which thrilled the east last year— Stuhldreher, Layden, Crowley and Miller—and if Knute Rockne follows precedent, he probably will put on display a couple of sensational sophomores as a promise—"Here's what you'll have to beat next year."

The Army, as a rule, runs more to power than brilliance, but this year the Cadets will have Harry Wilson, the All-American back from last year's Penn State eleven, and Wilson is one of the best and most spectacular runners in the game.

Last year the Army-Notre Dame game conflicted with one of the games of the world's series, and it made itself felt appreciably on the gate at the baseball game.

* * * * * * * * *

Penn State is down south to play a return game with Georgia Tech and a good hard game is assured. The two teams have enjoyed the friendliest of relations and their games in the past two years have been features of the season. Penn State may not be as strong as last year, as several of the players upon whom Hugo Bezdek depended as a nucleus for his team, got into scholastic troubles and were disqualified for the season.

While it isn't the most important game of the season, the battle at Lincoln between Colgate and the powerful Nebraska team will be one of the hardest played and most interesting games of the day. No teams in the country play harder football than Colgate and Nebraska.
